

Appearances Can Be Deceiving

Speaking Lessons

STEP 1: Assessment

- Do you believe in first impressions when you meet new people?

STEP 2: Theory

Read the following sentences out loud. Can you tell the meaning of the word in bold by the context?
What do these words mean?

1. Appearances can be deceiving.
2. Science says that people decide if you are trustworthy, charismatic, friend or foe within 12 seconds of meeting you.
3. They say you are what you eat, are you also what you wear?
4. As a Human Resources person, it is your job to judge people during an interview.
5. You never get a second chance to make a first impression.

STEP 3: Controlled and Communicative Exercises

Exercise 1: Answer the following questions about yourself. Ask your tutor the same question.

- Do you make a good first impression?
- They say that appearances can be deceiving. Do you agree with this saying?
- Have you ever been deceived by someone's appearance?
- Do you consider yourself trustworthy?
- Are you a charismatic person?
- Do you judge people by their appearance?
- Do you think about how other people see you when you chose what to wear?
- Can you tell if someone is friend or foe right away?

Exercise 2: What are three adjectives that describe your personality? Complete the sentences with your own adjectives. For each sentence, you need to give an example of a situation that illustrates the personality trait.

Example: I think I am patient. I am patient when my friends arrive late. I don't mind waiting.

1. I think I am ...
2. My family thinks I am ...
3. My friends think I am ...

Exercise 3: Ask your tutor the same question above.

E.g. How about you? What are you like? How do you demonstrate those personality traits?

STEP 4: Production Task

You will play a game called "First impressions". Click on the link below. Answer the questions in complete sentences and ask follow-up questions.

<https://wordwall.net/resource/29881713>

STEP 5: Final Review

- Did you change your mind about first impressions?
- What new vocabulary did you learn today?

Tutor Note

- Ask, "how do you say" questions with the new vocabulary the tutee doesn't mention.

Important

- Write down the words you learned today and study them.